For Congress, Democratic, Andrew Brodbeck, H. N. Gitt of Hanover and C. A. Hawkins of York. Republican, D. F. Lafean.

N. G. P. Visitors.

Adjutant General Thomas J. Stewart, Division Commander Major General C. Bow Dougherty, Brigadier General Price, Commander of the First Brigade, and Major L. V. Rausch, Quartermaster and keeper of the State Arsenal, visited Gettysburg last week. They came to Gettysburg on Friday evening, registered at the Hotel Gettysburg, met members of the Board of Trade and on Saturday morning took a drive of inspection over territory near the town believed to be available for encampment purposes for the National Guard of Pennsylvania. A number of sites for this year's encampment have been suggested, Selinsgrove, Erie, Gettysburg, Mt. Gretna and others.

There are unusual difficulties facing Gettysburg this year. When the War Department gave consent to the use of the old camping ground in 1910 it was with the qualification that battlefield grounds would not be permitted to be used in the future for similar purposes and the very first requisite to secure the encampment this year will be a suitable site that will not conflict with the battlefield. If this difficulty can be overcome and an acceptable site be offered Gettysburg will next have to face the proposition of the usual contribution toward the rental of the land. It will be no easy proposition to secure the encampment this year and if our business people desire the same it will require the helping hand in every effort made to secure the same.

Two Superior Court Cases.

On Monday two cases from Adams County were down for argument in the Superior Court, sitting at Harrisburg. They were the following:

Catharine Hershey vs. Chas. J. Delone. This was the case of a widow's dower, upon land which after several transfers came into hands of defendant. The latter claimed he was not personally liable for the dower but the same must come out of the land. A mill on property had been destroyed by fire. The judgement in our court was that dower should be first collected from the land and any unpaid part not realized from the land the defendant would be liable for. Chas. S. Duncan and J. D. Keith, Esqs represent plaintiff and Hon. Geo. J. Benner, Esq. the defendant.

The second case for argument is that of the Gettysburg School District vs. the Cumberland Township School District, involving the question whether the township should pay for scholars attending the town schools for period of seven months, the school term in township or for nine months the school term in the borough. The Court below decided that township would only pay for seven months, the township school term, Hon. D. P. McPherson, for plaintiff and J. L. Butt, Esq. for defendant

Ugly Fire Threatened.

A gasoline plant exploded in the kitchen of the Shultz Cafe on Carlisle street on last Wednesday evening and for a time a serious fire was threatened but energetic work by the Fire Company saved a building that has been feared for years as a fire trap. The kitchen however was entirely gutted, and the first and second floors badly damaged by water. The building was known for a generation as McConaughy's Hall, and is now owned by John Weaver and Cafe is conducted by John Shultz.

Harry Sheely, employed at the cafe, Mrs. Shultz and her two daughters, Katie and Ruth, were in the kitchen at the time. Katie Shultz received burns, while not serious required medical attention. Mrs. Shultz and Ruth were but slightly burned. Harry Sheely was severely burned about the hands and head while getting Mrs. Shultz and her daughters out of the room.

The household effects of the Shultz family were almost a total loss and covered by insurance. The building was also insured and damage done by the fire is being repaired.

100,000 Veterans Next Year.

When the capacity of Gettysburg was presented by Dr. J. A. Singmaster to the Commission having charge of the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg, it was stated that a most conservative estimate of the attendance, if free transportation was offered, would be 27,000 surviving veterans of the battle, that it had been found as a fact that with each veteran there might be expected a member of his family, which would bring an attendance from these sources to 54,000, and including civilians it did not seem extravagant that the total attendance would be 75,000 and then the difficulties of transportation, entertainment, etc. were pointed out.

Developments of last week show that Dr. J. A. Singmaster and the local committee of which he was chairman are far too conservative in their estimates alongside of the Commission having charge of the celebration. They made the admission last week through their Field Secretary that they are planning to bring to Gettysburg 100,000 veterans, and with members of the families and friends of the veterans and the accompanying civilians there ought to be a perfect dream of a crowd in Gettysburg in 1913

And it ought not to be a very difficult matter to get 100,000 or double that number started toward Gettysburg, for the pension rolls show that in Pennsylvania and the States surrounding the Keystone State, New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Maryland and Delaware there are living today over 200,000 veterans of the Civil War, and throughout the country three times that number and with free transportation it ought to be a simple matter to start them coming. But getting them into Gettysburg for a four days celebration and taking care of them while here, well that's another question.

A dispatch from Trenton last week stated, that Senator Nicholas introduced in the senate a bill providing for the transportation at the state's expense of all New Jersey Civil war veterans to attend the 50th anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg, next July, and there are about 15,000 veterans in New Jersey.

The bill introduced by Senator Nicholas is supplemental to one introduced by him some time ago, which has already become a law, but which limited the providing of transportation to New Jersey Civil war veterans who participated in the battle of Gettysburg.

Immediately upon the introduction of the bill, Colonel Lewis E. Beitler, field secretary of the Pennsylvania committee having the anniversary in charge, was granted the privilege of the floor and he addressed the senate, explaining the scope of the celebration and stating that Pennsylvania has appropriated $250,000 for the entertainment of the veterans who attend the anniversary, which is expected to be the biggest event of its kind ever held in this country. It is planned to have 100,000 veterans at the celebration, including the veterans of the confederacy. Colonel Beitler has succeeded in interesting Governor Wilson in the matter and is expected to be given an opportunity to also address the assembly.

Important Post.

The Second World's Christian Citizenship Conference will be held in Portland, Oregon, June 29th to July 6th, 1913, and Dr. J. A. Singmaster, President of the Theological Seminary of this place has been appointed to an important post in connection with the conference. Representative men from all Christian countries are invited to these conferences and it is believed that the Portland conference will be one of the largest and most significant gatherings ever held by Christian men and women.

Ice Company Developments.

The Board of Directors of the Gettysburg Ice and Storage Company was increased at a meeting of the company last week from five to seven members and the following officers and directors elected were J. L. Butt, president; E. M. Bender, secretary; Chas. B. Dougherty, treasurer and general manager, and directors C. Wm. Beales, Chas. H. Huber, W. Lavere Hafer and Wm. B. McIlhenny.

The company recently bought of Capt. Calvin Gilbert a lot fronting 35 feet on Railroad street and on to this lot they moved the plant of the Bottling Works and bought from the latter a piece of ground 35 feet in width adjoining their plant on the west. This additional land was acquired for the purpose of erecting thereon a large cold storage plant for the apple business. When this addition will be started has not been determined.

The company has installed an extra boiler, new and additional ice cream freezer and the engine room has been enclosed in brick greatly reducing fire risks.

The report of the business done by the company during the past year was very gratifying to the directors and stockholders and in Mr. Dougherty the company realizes they have a general manager who has proven eminently successful in the management and development of the business of the plant.

Intercollegiate Oratorical Contest.

The annual intercollegiate oratorical contest was held in Brua Chapel last Thursday evening with five participants. Ursinus College was represented by A. Melville Hillman, who spoke on "The Man Behind the Bars;" Gettysburg by J. Gould Wickey, "The Spirit of the Fathers:" Muhlenberg, Herbert B. Frederick, "God's Crucible;" Swarthmore, W. K. Hoyt, "Our Cities" and Franklin and Marshall, Howard Ellwood Ammerman, "The Problem of the 20th Century."

The first prize was awarded to Frederick of Muhlenberg, and the second to Ammerman of Franklin and Marshall.

Conowago Dam to be Rebuilt.

The mill property of Harry J. Arendt on the Big Conewago in Reading township, has been sold to the Conowago Milling Company. This company is a new organization composed of property holders, campers and picnicers who every summer visit the banks of the Big Conewago, in search of recreation. During the high water three weeks ago the breast of the dam was damaged to considerable extent. As the owner did not show any signs of rebuilding, immediate steps were taken to organize a company to buy the property and then make the necessary repairs; it is said rebuilding operations will commence at once.

Five New Boarders at Jail.

Sheriff Thompson had his boarders at the jail increased by five additions in one day last week, Charles Powel, colored, arrested on a charge of surety of peace preferred by John Smith, Francis Heist, Earl Miller and Harry Small, who said their homes were in Midway, were arrested and given ten days in jail for stealing rides on W. M. freight train, and Ollie Carter, colored, arrested on charge of theft of two bottles of whiskey from the storeroom of the Hotel Gettysburg.

Gettysburg Board of Trade.

The Gettysburg Board of Trade has been recently organized and it has been proposed to have it legally chartered in effort to secure as much permanency for it as possible. At a recent gathering of a number of business men of the town the great need of such an organization was discussed and every one present was of one mind on this point. At a subsequent meeting a constitution was submitted and adopted and Wm. Arch McClean chosen president and R. C. Miller, secretary-treasurer and directed to go ahead with an organization.

The purpose of the Board of Trade as announced will be to promote better business, civic, industrial and tourist conditions in Gettysburg and for the general welfare of the town and will take up work of trying to secure better train service and schedules, the securing of encampments, conventions and meetings in the town, home preparations for coming events, the development of the tourist trade, the encouragement of industrial developments and civic improvements. These purposes are such as to appeal to everyone interested in his own town. Lack of money for the necessary work to be done has always handicapped previous organizations and to overcome this to some extent the active membership fee has been fixed at $10 and a contributing membership at $5. The purposes are believed to be such as will attract a large membership. Last week letters were sent to the business and professional citizens of the town and vicinity and already a membership of about twenty has been assured.

NEW FURNITURE PLANT

MR. C. S. REASER WILL BE THE MANAGER OF SAME.

The Plant Will Manufacture China Closets—Prospects are of the Brightest Kind.

The plans of the new furniture factory have reached a point where application has been made for a charter of incorporation, which will be heard by the Governor on April 9th. The new company will be known as as the Gettysburg Furniture Company, with a capital of $50,000. Only $40,000 will be offered for sale at the present time. In taking subscriptions to the stock it was provided that when the subscription reached $30,000 work should begin to incorporate and operations go ahead. Subscriptions reached the $32,000 mark last week. Five-sixths of the subscriptions have come from our town people in sums ranging from $100 to $1,000 with one of $5,000. No trouble is anticipated in disposing of the entire issue of $40,000.

The options on the land north of the W. M. R. R. and opposite the Reaser Furniture Company have been closed and the new company secures the field from C. B. Dougherty owned a long time by David Troxel and the adjoining field formerly the Herbst field. The land is most conveniently located and admits of the best switch facilities from the W. M. R. R. On this land there will be erected the new plant specially devoted to the manufacture of china closets. The main building to be immediately erected will be nearly four hundred feet long and 60 to 75 feet wide. It will be equipped with the best of machinery. It is estimated that the capital stock will pay for land, buildings and machinery and give a working capital besides.

The success of the company is assured from the start. In the first place the management will be in the hands of C. S. Reaser who has demonstrated that he has a genius for management Four years ago he acquired what is now the Reaser Company with more liabilities than assets, and to-day the net assets of the company after providing for all liabilities are $2.00 for every $1.00 of capital stock invested in plant. The management of a company with a plant paid for and a working capital will give Mr. Reaser a chance such as he never had with the older plant and it is a foregone conclusion that he will make good. The confidence of his company in his ability was shown in its action last week to insure Mr. Reaser's life for the benefit of the Reaser Furniture Company.

Again the success of the new plant is assured by the fact that if it is found desirable the new company has already a purchaser for the entire output of plant for the next five years. At the furniture show in New York the product of the Reaser plant attracted great attention and two of the best furniture selling agents in the country. L. J. Dorson of New York, and Wm. Berdine of Newark, volunteered to take stock in the new company, which they have done, but they also offered to handle exclusively the lines of the two companies in buffets and china closets and are ready to contract to purchase the entire output of the two plants for the next five years. If this arrangement is concluded the plants will not have to book a single order for the next five years but manufacture to their limit with the product sold as fast as delivered to these two sales agents.

The plans for the new plant will be worked out at an early date and every preparation will be made to push forward the work rapidly and it is said that the new company will be ready by July 1st to begin to turn out china closets. The new plant will give employment to seventy-five men and when the two plants are busy pushing out their product the combined force of the two will be near to 200 men with a weekly pay roll of about $2000. The two plants as business propositions will be entirely separate, yet in the management the finished products will match in style and finish, so that each may supplement the other in the making of a market for the buffets and china closets.

L. M. Buehler's New Departure.

After two months of remarkable sales, L. M. Buehler, the enterprising druggist, says that his plan of selling at half price the regular 50 cent size of Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia, and guaranteeing to refund the money if it does not cure, has been the greatest success he has ever known.

Anyone suffering with dyspepsia, constipation, liver troubles, headaches dizziness, coated tongue, or the general tired feeling caused by inactive liver and bowels or disordered digestion, should take advantage of L. M. Buehler's new departure and buy a bottle of Dr. Howard's specific at half price, with L. M. Buehler's personal guarantee to refund the money if it if it does not cure.

The California Cars here March 21, 22 and 23 will give our people a treat such as they probably may never have again and the old and young should not miss it for the small price asked, and the beautiful souvenir they will get as a reminder of their visit, Free.

A WORKING STANDARD

WHAT IS A REASONABLE WORKING STANDARD?

Paper Read by Prof. H. M. Roth Before the Parent-Teachers' Association.

Standard—by what may we reasonably measure ourselves and the results of our efforts? What is a reasonable working standard toward which to bend our energies? Emerson tells us to hitch our cart to a star and pull toward it. But only occasionally can we climb to the heights on which we can meet Emerson and get a broad outlook from his view point. Christ said, "Be ye also perfect, even as your Father in heaven is perfect." Here again, imperfect humanity can only climb as it were the Mount of Transfiguration and catch a glimpse of the vision beautiful; then go back down into the valley and through many failures and disappointments help work out the problems of race salvation. For it cannot be gainsaid that life is made up largely of the level stretches with only occasional peaks of inspiration. So, I have written of the level stretches, but because I have, I do not wish to seem to underestimate the value of the high lights, for by them we steer our course as surely as the pilot steers by the head lands We are better men and women for an occasional climb to the top of some grand mountain There the petty things, the artificialities, the false standards, and false values fall away from us; and we see the real things in their true perspective. We wish that we might remain there forever, far removed from the sordidness and strife that we know continues far below us. But mountain peaks like Mounts of Transfiguration are untenable: and we teachers must measure with a quick accurate eye our field of endeavor, determine upon a clear-out, well-defined course, and descend to the struggle For he who stands solidly for an advance idea must expect to encounter opposition and even antagonism.

So let us measure our work and strengthen the weak places before a merciless critic further exposes us.

For one hundred years the West Point Military Academy has been recruiting from every Congressional District of every state in the Union This period covers every stage of the development of our public school system, and surely here is an exceptional opportunity to see ourselves as others see us.

The present requirements are a physical test and 66 per cent. in Elementary Algebra through Quadratics, Plane Geometry, English Grammar, English Literature and Composition (very elementary), U. S. History, General History, Geography. Part of this is only eighth grade work, and the remainder should be met by any well regulated high school. The examinations are written and abundant time is given for their completion by the most inferior.

On March 1st last year 351 candidates applied for entrance to the Military Academy. Of this number, 30 per cent. were physical defective. This is a serious feature and the cause of this failure may not be laid at our door. So we turn from a questionable responsibility to one from which there is no escape. Of those examined mentally 84 per cent. failed. We cannot escape by saying they did not fairly represent the public schools, for by actual statistics 90 per cent. were educated in the public schools, with an average attendance of 119 months, or a trifle over thirteen school years of nine month each. In addition to this, 185 of the number had had one or more years in college. The appointments were secured usually through competitive examinations, and were not from the idle, shiftless class for 206 of them had earned their living either wholly or in part. And the minimum was 66 per cent.

We exact from the pupil twelve of the brightest, most joyous years of his life. For all this we render only 16 per cent. of efficiency. An electrician expects to recover from 75 to 90 per cent. efficiency, else his machine is a failure, so I inclined to think that a machine that gave back only 16 per cent. would find a place in the junk heap.

The compulsory educational law is defensible only in proportion to the excellence of results obtained. Viewed over the tripod of an 84 per cent. failure, there is more than a modicum of justice in the position of the hardheaded tradesman, who resents his son's being compelled to serve his apprenticeship in a school selected by some one else.

I would not have the Compulsory educational law changed unless it be to make it more effective, but I do say that the school is strongly under obligation to make the results a liberal compensation for the outlay in money and attendance

In New York only four and in Chicago only 5 per cent. of the public school pupils are in the high school as opposed to 33 1-3 per cent that would be there if they were distributed evenly through the grades. Of those who do enter the high school nearly half drop out the first year. For this reason some condemn the school system by saying it does not meet the requirements, hence they repudiate it

And thus we could multiply evidences of the same tenor. In discussing this problem with busy, successful business men we find them very severe in their criticism and it is difficult to get them to express a complimentary opinion. But let us get to the causes You ask teachers the cause and we say we haven't time.

ALL DRUGGISTS

It is said that there was a busy, hardworking mother who did everything for the seven children that a poor man's wife must do. In clothing them she selected good material, the style was in good taste and the workmanship was above the average of home dressmakers When the garments were nicely finished with the exception of buttons and buttonholes, she allowed the stress of other duties, whose number was legion, to take her from her sewing; and morning after morning four little girls presented themselves in school with a long row of pins placed neatly about one inch apart and extending from neck to below waist line Every morning that unfinished task rose up as a stumbling block, for the children could neither help themselves nor help one another The teacher asked why her children were tardy and was told that it took so long to dress them all. She asked why she did not sew buttons on their clothes, and was told that she did not have time.

In this bit of life there is a close parallel to some of the public school teaching. Teachers make earnest preparation through many years of training, the homes furnish a good grade of raw material, the public pays a reasonable compensation, the child himself brings to the scene a fine enthusiasm; and the process begins. All labor faithfully, in fact the public is convinced that teachers as a class are unsurpassed in energy and devotion to their work. But when some or even 9-10 of the work is done we allow ourselves to be crowded on to the next, or figuratively speaking, we stop short of sewing on the buttons. And the result is the same as in household economy. We fail to give the "seventy times seven" drill that gives a working knowledge of the subject This working knowledge is the only brand of knowledge in which the public is interested. A bank clerk, adding a long column of figures, receives and merits no compensation for knowing that six and eight are 14 and occasionally saying 13. In other words, our pupils will be paid for exactly what they execute, not what they may know but do not make use of. The business world is too busy to listen to any explanation as to why they said six and eight are thirteen. John simply must be accurate in execution or John is an economic failure. If the bank must employ a second man to go over John's accounts to know whether they are correct, of what value is John? He steps down and out to swell the ranks of the dissatisfied, disgruntled incompetents.

We inaugurate and inculcate a standard of efficiency that is not the standard of the world in which our people must struggle for existence and where only the fittest survive. In fact, the standard of efficiency of our schools has but one other parallel—that of a fond mother who sees in every effort of her child a heroic effort, and in every achievement the ear marks of genius. Not but what this in a mother is a beautiful thing; but his mother is giving him enough of that, and when he comes to school he needs some one whose judgment is less obscured by sentiment. But we all love a child, and it is hard to measure him by the standard of a unsentimental public, that is interested only in results. But we must do it, and if children are so measured from the beginning they are perfectly happy and contented with their rating. If they have been falsely gauged for a number of years, the task of shifting them to a solid basis is not a pleasant one in the beginning; and the teacher with an eye singled to personal popularity never begins it—she passes them on just as she received them. But we must teach the needs not the wants of the humanity; and any way there is good cheer for the brave.

Children understand what is being done for them and like it much quicker than had been anticipated. Unfortunately parents do not always understand that our 60 per cent. is better than the former 92 per cent., but again, let me say, we should find out what the world needs and on that altar let us pour out our devotion.

And now to be more specific, what are the things that are left buttonless? Let us take only one example and let it typify all such ommissions. From the earliest dawn of reason the intent is taken for the deed. If a problem is worth 10 per cent. and John reasons correctly but fails mechanically to obtain a correct answer, he is given 8 per cent. for his process and debited only 2 per cent. for his carelessness, and not only John, but John's mother is pardonable in thinking he has done very well. Out of ten such problems four inaccuracies is not an unusual number, and John proudly exhibits a 92 per cent. when no business institution would have rated him above 60 per cent. With them it is the result that is considered, it is right or wrong, never half way, worth 10 per cent. or zero, and should it not be so with us? It is a crime against the human family to take twelve years out of the lives of its young people to instill an erroneous conception of what the world expects of them or will accept from them. We had best teach them a few things right while it costs only per cents, for later it will cost dollars. We mean to be kind, not harsh, when we make our standard that of an exacting business man; and we have no moral right to do any less.

I have mentioned the level stretches only and did not mention the peaks. I have discussed the utilitarian side of the work of the public schools not because it has no other side, but because this comes first, and will leave the artistic to some one else.

This all leads to the question of the province of the schools—whether to prepare for the university or for life. Inasmuch as over 90 per cent. go direct from the school to actual living, we would suggest that we carry preparation for life as the dominant idea and make preparation for the university second in consideration. To administer the whole for the benefit of the 10 per cent, and that 10 per cent. the favored class generally speaking, is not democratic We must serve the 90 per cent primarily, the 10 per cent. secondarily, but at all times serve, though not as the menial serves.

The great man serves the little man, and reports not to the little man but to a higher tribunal.

The soldier marches, fights, obeys orders, guards his sleeping comrades, but he reports to the general whose headquarters are beyond the stars.

What has David to do with Jonathan? Serve Jonathan, but he serves like a king. What have we to do with the public? Serve the public, but our accounts are audited in the clearing house of Heaven.

"RICHMOND" Suction Cleaner

IN YOUR OWN HOME 5 DAYS FREE

We want every woman in America to have the opportunity to try the "RICHMOND" Suction Cleaner in her own home. And to show our unbounded confidence in the machine, we've decided to send it out on 5 days free trial.

Use it as much as you like. Clean your carpets and rugs, your upholstery, curtains, walls, ceilings, mattresses, pillows, etc.

See for yourself how it makes everything as bright and new as the day it was bought. See how it cleans without raising a particle of dust, how it makes after dusting unnecessary. Watch it get the dirt from under heavy furniture, behind radiators and from other inaccessable places.

Try the nine special attachments which we furnish with every machine—the hair-drying tool, the tools for cleaning clothes, book-shelves, etc.

"RICHMOND" Suction Cleaner

Compare this easy, pleasant method of cleaning with the disagreeable backaching drudgery of brooms, mops and dusters.

Put the machine in every test you can think of.

Then at the end of 5 days if you are willing to part with the machine simply notify us and we'll send for it.

On the other hand if you wish to keep the machine you can pay for it on Easy Monthly Payments out of the actual money which the machine saves for you.

A liberal discount will be allowed those who pay cash.

The experience of most purchasers is that the "RICHMOND" Suction Cleaner pays for itself in from twelve to thirty months.

It pays for itself, first, because it does away with the annual or semi-annual tear ups called housecleaning (and housecleaning costs more than you think unless you have figured it out).

It pays for itself, second, because it doubles and trebles the life of floor coverings, bangings, furniture, wall paper, decorations, etc.

The "RICHMOND" Suction Cleaner weighs but 10 pounds. It can easily be carried upstairs, downstairs anywhere without the least fatigue. It is a truly portable cleaner.

A "RICHMOND" is built with a view to long durability and we cover it with the broadest possible guarantee. It is simple in construction. There is nothing to wear out. There are no gears, no diaphragms, no valves. Nothing to jiggle loose. To operate, simply attach to any electric lamp socket. Costs about one cent per hour to operate.

Surely you must see that the "RICHMOND" Suction Cleaner must give perfect service, perfect satisfaction, day after day, month after month, else we could not afford this offer

But don't take our word for it. Find out for yourself. Try a machine at our risk. If it doesn't make good—if it doesn't more than come up to your expectations, simply tell us to take it away. Could anything be more fair?

Remember it costs you nothing if you decide to keep the machine. All we ask is that $1.00 be deposited with us as evidence of good faith and to keep away triflers. The $1 00 will be refunded in case the machine is returned.

Prices Range from $40.00 to $85.00.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is the best of all medicines for the cure of diseases, disorders and weaknesses peculiar to women. It is the only preparation of its kind devised by a regularly graduated physician—an experienced and skilled specialist in the diseases of women.

It is a safe medicine in any condition of the system. THE ONE REMEDY which contains no alcohol and no injurious habit-forming drugs and which creates no craving for such stimulants.

THE ONE REMEDY so good that its makers are not afraid to print its every ingredient on each outside bottle-wrapper and attest to the truthfulness of the same under oath.

It is sold by medicine dealers everywhere, and any dealer who hasn't it can get it. Don't take a substitute of unknown composition for this medicine of KNOWN COMPOSITION. No counterfeit is as good as the genuine and the druggist who says something else is "just as good as Dr. Pierce's" is either mistaken or is trying to deceive you for his own selfish benefit. Devoe Takes Less Gallons Always Paint Devoe; it's the cheapest paint in the world: never mind the price; it may or may not be more. Less gallons will paint the house; and the paint will outwear anything.

Skip wear: you've got to wait, to find that out. It covers more; you havent got to wait to find that out.

It's the cheapest of all; no matter about the price.

Mr. A. J. Smith, Littlestown, Pa., painted his house; his painter told him to get 13 1-2 gallons Devoe; had 1 1-2 left.

Mr. A. H. Rebert, same town, has lots of buildings; paints Devoe; pays 20 cents more a gallon for it; is glad to; says it's the cheapest there is.

That's how.

Is Dixie at Last to Have a Presidential Candidate of Her Own?

Majority Leader's Clear Cut Position on Tariff---His Clash With Bryan.

ONE OF A SERIES OF ARTICLES ON THE PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

THE issue in this presidential campaign is between a prohibitive and a competitive tariff That is the way Oscar W. Underwood puts it, and he is the man in charge of the attack on the ancient breastworks of protection, or maybe it is ancient bulwarks. Anyway he is attacking them.

While he is a candidate for president, Mr. Underwood, like the man who was a Christian, is not working at it He is perfectly willing that all of his friends should boom him: but, as for himself, he is busy, being majority leader of the house. This is a man's job and leaves him no more time for running around the country, maintaining a headquarters and doing the other things that a presidential candidate is supposed to do.

OSCAR W. UNDERWOOD.

Born Louisville, Ky., May 6, 1862.

Grandfather a representative and United States senator from Kentucky.

Educated Rugby school, Louisville, and University of Virginia.

Chairman Democratic committee Ninth district, Alabama, 1892.

Member of the house of representatives since 1894.

Chairman ways and means committee and majority leader, 1911.

A great many people talk about the office seeking the man but they don't practice what they preach. The minute an office timidly ventures in sight they make it run for its life Petroleum V. Nasby once heard that phrase about the office seeking the man, so he hid himself under a bench in the convention hall. He was not nominated Thereupon he concluded that the man should stay out in plain sight, where the office could see him

That is what Underwood is doing If the presidency is looking for a man six feet high, weighing 195 pounds, and hailing from Birmingham, Ala., why Oscar W is right there. But if he has to chase the said presidency all over the map and charm it by rear platform oratory and press agent stuff he will let it look elsewhere. He has his hands full with being chairman of the ways and means committee and manicuring the tariff.

Underwood is of the genus known as able citizen. He is not an orator and does not run to fuss and feathers. He has been called "the Democratic McKinley" not because he believes in protection, but because he is of the McKinley type. He is always immaculately dressed, is the soul of order, has his hair carefully plastered down and has never been known to get ruffled. His predecessor as ways and means chairman, Sereno E. Payne, is himself a suave, calm and smiling citizen, but Underwood goes him one better. He is more serene than Sereno

Plain Oscar W.

The Democratic majority leader is also modest, as surprising as that may seem in a politician He does not puff himself or pose for the newspapers I spent two hours trying to find what the W. in his name stands for, ransacked two newspaper "morgues" and even called up a man who used to be Oscar W.'s professor in college, but all to no avail. He is so modest he has never allowed it to appear in print. It may be Oscar William or Oscar Willing or some other mellifluous and far sounding name, but nobody knows. He will be fifty years old in May and has been in congress seventeen years, yet he has modestly hidden his middle name ... So plain Oscar W it must remain

Has the ... come when a south man can be nominated for the presidency? The last southern president was Andrew Johnson, and he was not elected to the office Neither did he have an ... happy time of it The last southern man elected president was Zachary Taylor, who was credited to Louisiana, and the last one nominated by one of the great parties was Winfield Scott of Virginia That was sixty years ago, in all of which time the southern half of the country has not had even a look in at the White House.

We are now celebrating the semicentenary of the civil war, and every one says that sectionalism is forever dead. If so, why not prove our faith by our works and elect a southern president? To a man up a tree it would seem the only thing lacking to the carrying out of this happy program is courage. If the Democratic party only had the nerve to name a southern candidate, would not the north make it a special point to vote for him?

Alabama comes first in the list of states. In former national conventions she has given her time to some other state that had a favorite son Now she has a candidate of her own It will be an unusual spectacle in a Democratic national convention when for the first time in more than fifty years a southern man is seriously presented and supported for the highest office in the gift of the nation And ... the south furnishes the bulk of the Democratic votes, and she alone has remained true to the party of Jefferson and Jackson through good and evil report Why should she not name the standard bearer?

Looks Like a Business Man.

Mr. Underwood is a true southerner of an old family a native of Kentucky, a citizen of Alabama, educated in the University of Virginia and married first to a belle of Virginia and next to a daughter of Alabama. Yet he has the appearance and methods of a New York business man. The only thing that betrays his southern origin is his speech, and it is not of the pronounced type, although he drops his "r's." In addressing the house he talks in an unimpassioned, matter of fact way, never at a loss for a word and never striving for effect.

One sample of the Underwood brand of patience is remembered in Washington. During a Democratic caucus a question was asked requiring a long explanation concerning some point in the tariff bill. A few minutes after Mr. Underwood had answered another member came in and asked the same question. The explanation was made as cheerfully and carefully as before. A late comer asked the question a third time. Again it was answered. One later than all the rest propounded it yet again, and this time the other members raised a howl, but Underwood insisted that the tardy one was entitled to the information and proceeded to give it.

Grandfather a Senator.

The floor leader of the house comes from a distinguished ancestry. His grandfather, Joseph R Underwood, was a Whig congressman from Kentucky and served in the United States senate as a colleague of Henry Clay. The father was a leading Louisville lawyer, but shortly after Oscar's birth the mother's health was so precarious that the family moved to St Paul for the advantage of the climate It may be added that the treatment was efficacious and that she is yet alive and may live to see her son in the White House

The lad returned to Louisville for his schooling and received a classical training at Rugby, after which he studied law in the University of Virginia The spirit of Thomas Jefferson yet hovers over this institution, and he there imbibed the Jeffersonian democracy which has stuck by him He first went to St Paul to hang out his shingle and it was only by chance that he missed being a son of the northwest rather than of the south. His older brother was in the iron business at Birmingham and induced him to migrate to Alabama before he had a client in St Paul

When he reached the southern Pittsburgh in 1884 there was not a street car line in the town Birmingham then had but 5,000 inhabitants. At the last census it boasted 132,000. He prospered in the law and inevitably got into politics. There was naturally much protection sentiment in Birmingham, the home of the great iron foundries of the south, yet when Underwood ran for congress in 1894 it was on a Cleveland platform of tariff for revenue only. He was opposed by a high tariff man, and, though elected, he was thrown out on a contest near the end of his first term. He kept on running as a tariff for revenue man, however, and has been returned in every election since, three times, without a contest.

For a Lower Tariff on Steel.

During the Payne tariff bill fight the Commercial club of Birmingham, the strongest organization in his district, telegraphed to Underwood that steel duties must be maintained at $4 per ton. Underwood wired back that he considered the duty prohibitive and voted to reduce it to $2.50 per ton. That required nerve since his brother and father-in-law were both in the steel business and he himself owned shares in a steel mill.

This recalls the memorable day in the special session of last year when Underwood answered William J. Bryan. In the Commoner Mr. Bryan had accused him of delaying ... on the steel schedule. ... a question of personal privilege. Underwood stated that he had urged consideration of this schedule, but that others on the committee had prevented He appealed to members of the committee to confirm his statement, which they did. He then deliberately charged the leader of his party with falsification, while the house howled approval This also required nerve.

Underwood's friends say that he is the logical candidate for president against Mr. Taft for the reason that the fight will be on the issue raised between the Democratic house and the president and Underwood typifies the house Mr. Mann calls him "the majority side"

To my own mind the exposition of the Democratic position on the tariff given by the majority leader is about the most lucid and convincing that has appeared. He claims that a tariff for revenue is the only truly competitive tariff since under it the duties will naturally be placed at the highest point possible at which importations will still come in. Yet that would approximately be at a point that would equalize cost of production at home and abroad.

It has been remarked of Oscar W. Underwood that he is the only man in the American congress who could be placed in a hermetically sealed room and emerge with a perfectly good tariff bill

National Delegate Candidate.

Charles M. Kerr of Wrightsville, York county, has announced himself as a candidate for delegate to the Democratic National Convention to be held in Baltimore in June. Mr. Kerr has long been an admirer of Governor Wilson of New Jersey, and has a brother, the Rev. John T. Kerr, of Elizabethtown, N. J., who was a classmate of Governor Wilson at Princeton.

Following is Mr. Kerr's letter:

To the Democracy of the Twentieth Congressional District.

I desire to announce my candidacy for delegate to the Democratic National Convention, which meets in Baltimore June 25th, 1912, to select a candidate for President on the Democratic ticket.

I am a great admirer of Woodrow Wilson and am heartily in accord with the lofty principles of good government for which he stands and, if chosen to represent this district at the coming National Convention, I shall do all in my power to have him nominated for President of the United States.

Thanking all for their influence and support, I am,

Respectfully,
CHARLES M. KERR.

National Delegate Candidate.

I hereby announce my candidacy for delegate to the Democratic National convention, which meets in Baltimore June 25, 1912, to select a candidate for president on the Democratic ticket.

We are entering upon a period of remarkable business efficiency all over the country, and it seems to me that we should make every effort to introduce this particular kind of efficiency into government as well as into commerce. I have watched with a great deal of interest Woodrow Wilson's advent into politics. All his life he has made a careful scientific study of political government, and from his speeches one can easily learn that he has ideas and convictions upon governmental problems far in advance of any one in public life today, and by his governship of New Jersey he has abundantly shown that he has the ability to deal with concrete governmental problems.

My observation of Woodrow Wilson's activities has only served to increase my admiration for him, and to strengthen my conviction that he is the one man to lead Democracy to success next fall.

If chosen to represent this district at the coming National convention, I shall do all I can to have him nominated for president of the United States.

Thanking all for their influence and support, I am

Respectfully,
6t S. FORRY LAUCKS

Announcement.

After over half a century of unselfish and devoted service in the ranks of the Democratic party and a wheel horse in every campaign in support of the party nominees, I have, bowing to the persuasion of numerous Democratic friends, consented to become a candidate for the distinctive honor of representing the Democracy of the 20th Congressional District as one of the two delegates to the Democratic National Convention, to assemble in Baltimore, June 25th, 1912. Having no personal ends to serve, if chosen, I go there myself with substitution, to represent the Democracy of my district. Their choice of a candidate shall be my choice and receive my vote unbossed, without dictation from any person. As the chosen representative of the Democracy I pledge myself to obey their every wish in the selection of a candidate. This is the platform upon which I stand and in announcing my determination to become a candidate, I most respectfully ask the support and influence of my fellow Democrats.

JOHN S. HIESTAND,
Springetsbury Township,
York County, Pa.

Mar. 6, 6t

I hereby announce my candidacy for delegate in the 20th Congressional District to the Democratic National Convention to be held in Baltimore June 25, 1912. I favor Woodrow Wilson for President of the United States and if I am elected I shall do all in my power to have him nominated, and believing in progressive Democratic principles I will vote for and support the Hon. A. Mitchell Palmer, the reorganization candidate for National Committeeman from Penn'a and I believe this to be a very important issue. Thanking one and all for their influence and support.

Very respectfully,
E. L. ECKERT.

PAMPAS PLUMES.

All the early travelers to South America, especially Peru, never forget to mention in describing that country, the luxuriant growth of flowers, and the beautiful Pampas Plumes that grow wild on the Pampas or plains. Later visitors to California were enthusiastic over the cultivated ones they saw in the flower gardens. California, a country famous for flowers where the Pampas Plumes are cultivated, they grow many times larger than in their native country, resembling a beautiful Ostrich Plume.

The manager of the California Cars that are to visit our city soon has been fortunate in securing a limited number of this beautiful product of nature, and will present one each to the first fifty married ladies who have paid admission tickets each day during their stay here.

New Stallion Law.

The Legislature of Pennsylvania of 1911 passed a new stallion law which is largely being put into operation at the present time. Every stallion and jack used for breeding purposes must be licensed. The obtaining of a license is not an optional matter with the owner but must be obtained and no license under previous laws will suffice. The license is issued by the State Live Stock Sanitary Board and can be refused for certain reasons and is recorded in the Prothonotary's office, is good for a year, must be renewed annually but need not be recorded again. The act provides that a violation of the act is punishable with a fine not to exceed $50 or if price is not paid imprisonment. The license must be displayed in a conspicuous manner in place where animal is kept and an exact copy of the license certificate must be included in every bill, poster and advertisement put out except newspaper advertisement which need only to contain the class and number of the license certificate.

A CARD TO CITIZENS.

Do not confound the North of Bay Counties Exhibit Cars with any other exhibit cars that have ever visited the city.

We are not selling land, neither are we advertising for railroads.

We are sent out by the twelve boards of trade, made up of the business men and ranchmen to promote immigration to our particular section of California, and show the products which we raise without irrigation.

We are here to show you what is being done daily in the land of sunshine, fruits and flowers, where the harvest starts on New Year's day and ends on New Year's eve.

The inducements we offer in our part of California in climate, soil and opportunities are unsurpassed in any other section of the west.

Our expenses are heavy. We pay for everything as we go, and we find it necessary to make a small admission charge, as do all world's fairs, to help defray expenses.

The two cars are filled with a grand array of fruits and vegetables, curios and relics from all over the world, including the largest shark ever captured, all going to make up what might be termed a little world's fair on wheels, and the most instructive exhibit that has ever paid your city a visit.

In Old Bill's Camp

By Marjorie W. Merrit

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.)

Old Bill's camp nestled down on the edge of a lake in the heart of the Maine woods. It was built of logs and had been, originally, a lumbermen's camp. After all the desirable timber had been cut and the camp abandoned, Old Bill had found it and made application to its owners for it. Being granted permission to live in it, he had taken up his solitary abode in the woods, and for five years, winter and summer, he had lived within the small log house.

Old Bill was a guide and in his younger days no guide of the Maine woods had been more popular. He was full six feet in height and he knew the woods and trails, the lakes and mountains like a book. Then there had come a time when he could no longer tramp from morning till night with young, enthusiastic fishermen or hunters, and carry their packs and cook their meals. But when that time came he found that he could not leave the woods. He loved them—every foot of them—whether they were strewn with fragrant pine needles or carpeted with the snows of winter.

The old guide had a small pension from the United States. He had served his time in the civil war and this monthly sum, small though it was, was sufficient for his wants, together with what he was able to find for his table in the woods and lakes. In summer he lived off fish and the berries that grew wild all about his camp. In winter, he fared well; venison and game were plentiful.

It was December—early December—but the winter was well under way in the north of Maine. Old Bill sat by the stove in his cook house, reading a six months' old magazine, when he heard the unfamiliar jungle of sleighbells on the crisp air.

He took his feet from the stove and stood upright, listening. The jingling sounds came closer. Some one had found the way to the isolated log camp and Bill made haste to throw on his great fur coat and step out of doors.

In the distance, picking their way slowly between the bows that marked the trail across the frozen lake, came two horses drawing a sled. The road was well marked by the green branches Old Bill himself had helped to place in the ice, but a heavy snow of the night before had made sleighing heavy. Old Bill closed the cabin door and walked through the narrow footpath to the foot of the lake. He had a few friends in the village, six miles away, but he little thought of their coming on a day like this.

"Hello Bill!" came across the cold air to him.

Bill waved his great hand. As yet he could see nothing but the sled and some muffled creatures within.

"We've got a surprise for you, Old Bill," said one of the men as the sled drew up.

"You sure have," replied the guide, helping to hold the horses while four persons crawled out from beneath the fur rugs and stepped into the deep snow. "You sure have! I haven't seen a living soul for three weeks—nor used my voice for as long. Put the horses up in the shed and blanket them well. Have you got feed?"

Frank Allen, for it was he, attended to the animals and then made his way with the others to the warm little cook shanty of the camp.

"Now, Old Bill," he began, putting his arm on a little figure all wrapped in a great coat, fur cap, veil and mittens, "here is the surprise!" He took off the heavy garments and a lovely girl stood before him. "This, Old Bill, is your granddaughter, Isabel Rogers—from Omaha, Nebraska."

Old Bill rubbed his eyes—he did not wear glasses. Not—not my daughter Belle's girl?" he cried, looking closely at her.

The girl nodded. "Yes, grandfather, you daughter Belle was my mother," she said.

The old man put out a hand that trembled. "I—I have not heard from her for years—not since she married that ranchman Rogers and went out west to live," he said.

"My mother has—has gone," the girl faltered, "and it was her last request—she made me promise to find you and live with you. She was afraid of my health and she knew the cold mountain air and the out-of-door life would be good for me. Oh, not that I'm not all right," the girl hastened to explain, "but mother was afraid after father died that I might not be strong. I wrote to you and each time my letters were returned from the postoffice in Greenville, so I determined to come and find you. Mr. Allen took me into his home when I arrived and promised to find you for me He says he has known you for years, grandfather."

The old guide nodded repeatedly as if just coming to a realization of what had taken place. His own grandchild had come to live with him—his daughter Belle's child! It seemed incredible but there she stood, a living proof of the truth—for Isabel was like her dead mother.

"Well, well, let's get some supper and celebrate," the old guide began, turning to the others. His heart was too full for further words with the girl; there would be time enough for that.

Frank Allen rubbed his hands together in front of the stove. "In that basket there is enough plain food for a week and with the aid of your venison, Old Bill, I guess we'll make out. These boys are starved and I promised them if they'd drive us out here they should have such a dinner as they've never had in camp before."

Old Bill's eyes twinkled. "I'll show them some venison steaks that will make your word good to them and I'll make some of Old Bill's corn bread," the guide added, laughing, as he went about the cook shack getting down pots and pans. "Isabel, you'll have to stay right here till I get a fire made in the little camp out yonder. If you will stay, that's your home from this minute."

Isabel looked out of the tiny window at the adjoining cabin of logs. It was piled high with snow banks—to keep out the cold, they told her. If a little shudder passed through her at the thought of sleeping out there she did not give evidence of it. She was brave and she had promised her mother.

Old Bill's camp rang with merriment that night as the five sat around the red-covered table and ate of the guide's cooking and welcomed to the camp the pretty western granddaughter.

The visitors were not long on their way the next morning before Isabel and her grandfather were out making footpaths in the snow and exploring. The girl took readily to the cold weather and helped to make her little cabin comfortable. The guide had made a great fire for her in the stove and she had unpacked the few homelike things she had brought with her.

"Do many hunters come this way?" asked the girl, hearing shots in the woods far off.

"Yes — plenty," replied the guide. "It is a good season for deer."

And even as they sat at supper that night they heard a knock at the cook room door.

"Come In!" roared Old Bill, without rising. This was the hospitality of the woods.

A lone man, blue and cold and tired, flung open the great door. He sank into a chair, exhausted.

Old Bill rose hastily and went to him. "Lost?" he asked, unbuttoning the man's fur coat.

"Yes—I got lost from my party this morning and have been tramping ever since. I saw your light."

"A lucky light for you, my boy," said Old Bill, in kindly tones. "Come over and have supper with me and my—grand-daughter," he said.

And after a while when the man was warmed and had become rested, he joined them.

"This often happens, Isabel, my girl," explained the old man, "so don't be surprised. I've been a refuge for many a lost hunter."

"You've been mine, indeed," added the grateful man as he drank the coffee Isabel had heated for him.

When Isabel went to her lonely little cabin that night it did not seem lonely. In all that great dense snow-covered forest she did not feel alone. Something told her that she would never feel alone again and though it was a year later that she realized just what had taken place on that night, she felt at peace with all the world, just now, and slept.

And Old Bill still has his camp, but it is enlivened during fishing and hunting season by visits from his grand-daughter and the husband he gave shelter to on one cold December night.

Race Between Clipper Ships.

The accuracy of sailing in the palmy days of the clipper ships is indicated by the statement that on a ninety-nine days race between five clipper ships in 1866 three went into port at the end of their voyage on the same tide, the Taeping beating the Ariel by only twelve minutes and the Serica by little over four hours.

The other two ships in this race, the Fiery Cross and the Taitsing, came in two days later. The Red Jacket on her first voyage went from Sandy Hook to the Rock light, Liverpool, in thirteen days one hour and the fastest British built clipper, the Melbourne, made when running her easting down 5,160 miles in seventeen days. We ought never to have lost the position we then held upon the ocean, when Donald McKay and Samuel Hall led the world in the building of fast ships. It is humiliating to think of the change that has come over mercantile marine since their day.—Army and Navy Journal.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

At Harrisburg May 7—Date of Donnelly-Ritter Convention.

The Executive committee of the Reorganizer Democratic State committee met at headquarters in Market square Harrisburg, last week, and decided to issue a call for the holding of the Reorganizer Democratic State Convention in the Board of Trade Hall, Harrisburg, May 7, at 10 o'clock a. m. The Donnelly-Ritter Democratic State Convention has been called to meet in Harrisburg on May 7 at noon at the Majestic theatre.

There were six of the nine division chairmen at the meeting, a roll call showing the following present: First division, William K. Meyers, Harrisburg; Second division, represented by Warren Worth Bailey, Johnstown, the regular chairman, S. M. Hoyer, of Altoona, not turning up and the county chairman of the division electing Mr. Bailey; Third division, William McNair, Pittsburgh; Fourth division, James G. Paul, Bradford; Fifth division, absent; Sixth division, absent; Seventh division, Fred C. Kirkendall, Wilkes Barre; Eighth division, E. C. Kremp, Reading; Ninth division, Frank B. Rhodes, Media.

Mr. Rhodes, of Media, moved that the next Democratic State convention be held in Harrisburg on May 7 at the Board of Trade hall at 10 o'clock in the morning

There was some discussion of this, some holding that it would be best to hold the convention as suggested, because it would bring every Democratic delegate to the city and the two claimants could then ascertain who was in the majority. If the conventions were held on different dates some of the delegates might attend both conventions.

It was suggested that a later time than 10 o'clock be set for the calling of the convention, as some of those who attend the 10 o'clock convention might answer roll call and then go into the regular convention at the Majestic. Those who favored the Rhodes motion insisted that it was best to hold the convention on the same day as the Donnelly—Ritter aggragation, as the reorganizer majority would be so strong that those who wavered would come under the reorganizer banner. If different dates are set and the reorganizer convention be held a week earlier, some of the delegates would attend both conventions.

The Rhodes resolution was finally adopted and May 7, at 10 a. m. at the Board of Trade, Harrisburg, are the time and place.

Reorganizer Chairman Guthrie was authorized to renew his offer to Regular State Chairman Ritter, which, in effect, is as follows:

"That the Reorganizers unite with Mr. Ritter and his committee in a joint call for a convention, the roll to be made up under joint supervision, placing on it the names of those shown to be elected by the official certificates, and no others, and to be called by a temporary president, also jointly selected, and leaves to the convention thus organized the decision of all questions."

Over 110 Miles of County Roads to Become State Roads

It has been announced that by May 1 the surveying of good road routes in the district in which Adams Co. is located will have been completed. Pennsylvania has been divided into 15 districts each in charge of an assistant engineer, and Edward S. Frey of York is the assistant engineer for this district.

All of the dirt roads surveyed by the state department will be taken over by the state on June 1 and will be maintained by the commonwealth thereafter. The toll roads, however, will not be taken over for maintenance until they are purchased. The routes in this county that have been surveyed to date and the distance between the points mentioned follow:

Route No. 126, York to Gettysburg, 29 miles.

Route No. 123, Harrisburg to Gettysburg via Dillsburg, 38 miles.

Route No. 41, Gettysburg to Carlisle, 30 miles.

Route No. 230, York to Littlestown via Spring Grove and Hanover, 26 miles.

Route No. 190, Wellsville to Maryland line via East Berlin, Abbottstown and Hanover, is under way at present.

Route No. 43, Gettysburg to Chambersburg, will be done at an early date. It is 24.6 miles long.

Route No. 42, Gettysburg to Maryland line via Littlestown, 12 miles.

Route No. 231, Gettysburg to Hanover via Bonneauville and McSherrystown.

The distances given are measured from Center square of each town to Center square of the next and are accurate. The surveys show that a number of alleged distances, which have held for many years, are wrong.

Of the roads surveyed and those which it is planned to lay out but one will be constructed under the appropriations now at hand. That will be the stretch between Gettysburg and Harrisburg and will doubtless be completed by July 4, 1913. The estimates on it have been ordered and the work will be started just as soon as bids are opened and awarded.

On June 1 between 110 and 120 miles of public road in Adams Co. will pass into the hands of the State to be maintained and the various districts will be saved all outlay thereafter on the same.

The Musselman Canning Company of Biglerville, will break ground for a large canning factory at Gardners Station in the very near future as the citizens in and around that section, to the number of 200 or more have raised enough money to purchase the site and lay a siding from the G. & H. tracks. SAW BIG SHARK CAPTURED.

Henry Stillman Present When Big Feature of California Exhibit Was Taken.

The visit of the exhibition cars of the North-of-Bay counties, California, has provided Henry Stillman, of 87 Lewis street, with an opportunity to substantiate a big fish story that he and his family has often told. Mr. Stillman's father, J. W. Stillman, visited the exhibition last evening and identified the monster shark, which is one of the star attractions in the display, as a big shark which his son saw captured in Monterey Bay, California. This shark is 36 feet long, weighs 10,583 pounds and, according to the number of vertebrae in its spine, was 460 years old when taken.

Mr. Stillman was much interested in the shark and told many of the visitors at the exhibition last evening about his son being present when the shark was captured.

The management of the exhibition train declare that Mr. Stillman is the first person that they have found in the East who was present at the capture of this unusual specimen.—Geneva (N. Y.) Times.
